Privacy Notice for Video Surveillance

The SCA Group comprises a number of companies and operations. Each SCA company is the data controller for its processing of personal data within the business relationship between that SCA company and the company for which you are a contact person or representative. The company within the SCA Group with which you are in contact is therefore the issuer of this notice.
SCA continually takes the necessary measures to ensure that your personal data is processed in accordance with applicable data protection legislation and good market practice. Further information about your rights in relation to SCA when SCA processes your personal data, as well as the legal bases for processing and SCA's fundamental principles, is provided in the General Privacy Notice, available at sca.com/gdpr.

Personal data SCA processes about you

We may process the following personal data about you in connection with video surveillance:

- Video footage, and
- audio, where applicable.

Why SCA processes your personal data

SCA uses video surveillance at our sites and buildings to prevent, detect and investigate criminal activity and accidents, and to maintain a safe and secure environment for our employees and visitors. At our production sites, video surveillance is also used for production-related purposes to prevent accidents.
Signs providing further information are displayed in areas subject to video surveillance.

The legal basis for our processing is legitimate interests, following a balancing test in which our legitimate interest in ensuring the safety of individuals and the security of property is considered to outweigh the individual’s interest in not having their personal data processed.

If audio is recorded, this must be specifically indicated on signs at the location. Recorded material is normally retained for only a few days and deleted on an ongoing basis. However, material may be retained for longer if required to comply with specific legal requirements or if necessary to investigate a break-in, an accident or a similar incident.
